Deb Gilmartin: A Brief CV

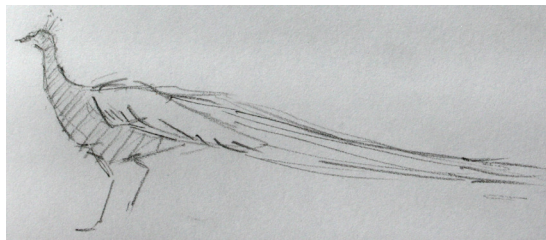

I have always drawn and painted animals ever since I was a child but I also had a passion for biology. I qualified as a biologist specialising in insects in my early career where I worked as a medical entomologist in South Africa. I emigrated to Australia where I retrained and worked as a high school teacher, teaching science and art for many years.

For the last 6 years I have gone back to my first love, art and have been practising as a full time artist. I have been a finalist in the prestigious Kedumba Drawing Award twice, a finalist in the Hans Heysen Landscape Prize, and regularly exhibit locally and interstate and overseas. I was the Artist in Residence for Australian Aerospace out at the Army Aviation Training Centre in Oakey resulting in a solo exhibition Tigers, Rotors & Blokes. I have won the Grand Champion Picture at Toowoomba Royal Show and won a McGregor Winter School Scholarship. I have work in collections both here and overseas. My last joint exhibition Feline Groovy with Robbie Erskine, was all about cats and was a great success.

I teach a regular drawing class at Murray's Art & Framing and I teach a beginners drawing course at the McGregor Winter School next year in July. For more details and examples of my work check out my web site or visit Myart Gallery, Toowoomba. You can also make an appointment to see my work at my home studio.
